The chimney, which was in the east side, would take in a 'back log' eight feet in length and a 'fore stick' ten There were two doors, one on north and one on the south side, opposite. These doors were made in this way to facilitate the making of fires. The back sticks were about eighteen inches in diameter. One end was placed on a sled, called 'lizard,' to which a horse was hitched and driven through the house until the log was opposite the fireplace and then rolled to its place in the fire; and so with the fore stick; and the smaller fuel carried in and placed on top. The two large sticks would last about twenty-four hours. Although this was one of the coldest winters ever experienced in this country, and the ground was covered with snow from the time we arrived until March 1, we lived as comfortably and contented as Friday and Robinson Crusoe. There was 'none to hinder or make us afraid,' with the exception of our dusky neighbors, and they were Gavin, Worth Merritt, Charles S. Lewis, John pretty quiet during the winter. Indianapolis was a wonderful place at that time, from a modern point of view, for deer and wild turkeys were shot in its streets. A graphic description of those days s found in the following paragraph from the dead historian's volume:

"The day before Christmas of that year one of our household killed a turkey in front of our door, and where Washington street crosses the canal, that weighed twenty-three pounds before it was dressed. It was so fat that the fall from the top of the tree burst it open. About 4 o'clock Christmas morning we were awakened by a salute from eight or ten rifles and a cry of 'Get up, Kaintuck; we want some of that old peach brandy and honey,' which my father understood very well to be some excellent peach brandy he brought from Kentucky, of which they drank freely while building our cabin. When he opened the door the entire nale portion of the Harding and McCormick population stepped into the cabin. mick population stepped into the cabin and gave three cheers for 'Old Kaintuck, the newcomer.' After paying the brandy the highest compliment in their power by drinking freely of it, they went to and saluted the inmates of the different cabins in the same way. There was no petty jealousy in the people at that day. All seemed on an equality; indeed, they seemed to think their only safety from their dusky neighbors was

from Canada.

DORVAL Quebec, July 31.-Glencairn III and Constance, respectively, Canadian defender of and American challenger for the Seawanhaka cup, started at 1:25 p. m. in the second contest of their series of three races in five. The first race, on Friday last, was won by Constance. The boats sailed a total of twelve miles in each race. To-day's course is triangular, one and one-third miles to a leg, to be sailed over three times. Conround at 1:48:30; Glencairn turned at 1:51:20. Glencairn had to make an extra tack to do it and lost considerable time. Constance turned the second buoy at 1:58 and Glenbuoy and completed eight miles at 2:49:23; Glencairn at 2:52:19. Constance turned the first buoy of the last round at 3:12:14; Glencairn at 3:13:50. Constance won the race. Constance finished first at 3:30:09; Glencairn

Count Boni's Laughable Defeat. COWES, July 31.-The second of the three international vacht races for the cup de France, held by the Temple Yacht Club, was started shortly after noon to-day. The course was from Ryde pler, ten miles to windward and return. A nice southeasterly breeze was blowing. Laurea finished 3:07:39, at which time the Anna (Count Boni de Castellane) was far astern, her steering gear having become deranged. The Temple Y. C. is thus the winner of two out of three races and retains the French cup. Yacht Club in the Solent to-day Meteor, Bona and Rainbow started at 10 o'clock in the race for the big yachts. The course was about forty miles. Rainbow gave up the race. The yachts finished as follows: Meteor, 4:32:15; Bona, 4:51:06. Meteor, however, allows Bona 11 minutes and 42 seconds. Therefore Meteor won by 7 minutes and 9 seconds.

FIFTEEN BOLTING COUNTIES. Anti-Goebel Convention Will Have

About 280 Delegates. LEXINGTON, Ky., July 31.-The state conference of anti-Goebel Democrats will be called to order at Woodland Park Wednesday afternoon. So far fifteen counties have instructed delegates to be present, and on the basis of the Louisville convention this will mean about 280 delegates. Several other counties will hold conferences Tuesday, and it is expected that fully five hundred delegates will be present. Major P. P. Johnston has left the city and will present, but Governor Brown is expected. When Brown is nominated the convention will claim the party emblem and will order it to be placed at the head of the ballot. The Goebel ticket claims to be entitled to the use of the party emblem. Iowa Republicans Lining Up. DES MOINES, Ia., July 31.-Despite the fact that there is only one nomination, that for supreme judge, in controversy a large proportion of the delegates to the Republican convention is already in town. The candidates are Judge G. S. Robinson, of Sioux City, present incumbent; Judge John C. Sherwin, of Mason City; Judge George W. Burnham, of Vinton; Judge Robert Sloan, of Koosauqua; Judge T. M. Fee, of Centerville; Judge James D. Giffin, of Marion. Robinson is conceded the largest vote on the first ballot.
